1. In July 1951 approximately one hundred Soviet-made jets were at the Langt'ou airfield. The airfield's east-west runway was four kilometers long; the north-south runway, three kilometers long. About one hundred plane shelters, seven meters high and ten meters long, were without covers. Approximately one thousand Soviet soldiers were at the field.
 2. Traffic from Antung to Tatungkou (124-10, 39-52) had been routed by way of Chieh-lai (結梨) to avoid passage of the Langt'ou field.
 3. In July the Liuhsiaoyuan (劉小園) airfield housed approximately one thousand Soviet soldiers. Two hundred Soviet soldiers were billeted in civilian homes south of the airfield. In July the field was under repair by workers recruited from the area south of Mukden.
 4. Each of the field's two runways was six kilometers long.
